Dear Art:

Please accept my best wishes to you upon your retirement after 31 years of service to FBIS. You have played a major role in training dozens of editors and monitors who will continue to shape FBIS for many years to come. Your long and varied service has made you a valued and inexhaustible source of lore about the development of this office.

From your early days as an editor at Headquarters and at bureaus in many foreign countries, to your later achievements as a manager in several parts of FBIS, your high standards have earned you admiration and respect. In your final assignment as a branch chief in Monitoring Operations Division, you helped FBIS expand coverage of the public media as they moved into the era of satellite transmissions.

Your many friends and colleagues in FBIS will greatly miss your confident touch in handling problems at the desk, just as they will miss your social conscience and your strong tennis serve. I hope that we will still see you often at FBIS functions for many years to come.

Sincerely,

STAT
